Salzburg Cutler Fellows Program: The Future of Public and Private International Law

While international legal frameworks established after World War II have long fostered the flow of ideas, goods and services around the world, tomorrow’s lawyers will address a multitude of global twenty-first century challenges. Lloyd N. Cutler, counselor to two US presidents and long-time chairman of the board of Salzburg Global Seminar, firmly believed in supporting young lawyers committed to public service. The Salzburg Cutler Fellows Program helps outstanding law students explore ways to build careers in international law that can help shape a better world, just as Lloyd N. Cutler did.

The Salzburg Cutler Fellows Program is a one-of-a-kind opportunity for graduate students from 11 top US law schools who intend to pursue careers in international law, legal practice and public service. The program identifies rising leaders and fosters lasting collaborative networks within the legal and public service sectors.

The Salzburg Cutler Fellows Program was launched in 2012 to carry forward the work begun by Lloyd N. Cutler of identifying and mentoring promising young lawyers interested in international law. Successful lawyers around the world cite their Salzburg Cutler Fellows experience as influencing their legal philosophy, global network development and public service contributions.

PROGRAM FORMAT
The program begins with each student preparing a research paper on a leading issue in public or private international law. Students selected competitively to represent their law schools gather Thursday evening for a welcome dinner and then meet over two intensive days in Washington, DC. Top law faculty and peers from 11 leading institutions review each paper in a workshop setting and offer advice on improving each argument and moving each paper toward publication. Lawyers and other mentors in public service meet with Fellows to discuss traditional and non-traditional pathways into careers in international law and public service. Fellows also enjoy keynote addresses by renowned public servants - past speakers include Justice Richard Goldstone, Kristalina Georgieva of the World Bank, and former director of the CIA and FBI Judge William Webster.

THE SALZBURG GLOBAL NETWORK
Salzburg Global Seminar fosters lasting networks and partnerships for creative, just and sustainable change. In addition to joining the 300-strong Salzburg Cutler Fellows network, Fellows will also be a part of the Salzburg Global Fellowship, comprising of 36,000 individuals in 170 countries.

PARTICIPANT PROFILE
The program accepts up to 55 law student Fellows at the 2L, 3L, and LLM levels. Five students are selected by each of the 11 participating law schools: Chicago, Columbia, Duke, Georgetown, Harvard, Michigan, New York University, Penn, Stanford, Virginia and Yale. Their areas of interest include international law, including international human rights and humanitarian law; international and national security; international environmental policy and law; international courts and tribunals; and international finance, monetary and trade law.
